

Mike Tannura

From: T-storm Weather [weather@tstorm.net]
Sent: Friday, June 08, 2007 11:10 AM
To: mike@t-storm.net
Subject: Update #2

Dear Mr. Mike Tannura,

The latest GFS is complete through Tuesday evening. It keeps best rain chances for Tuesday - Tuesday night around 100-200 miles northwest of its earlier output, which keeps most of Illinois dry. Therefore, the map on page 6 remains very reasonable. Rain chances from tonight through early next week remain minimal for the eastern Corn Belt and Delta.

Thank you for your business and have a good day.

Mike

Mike Tannura
Meteorologist and Commodity Analyst
Email: mike@tstorm.net
Website: www.tstorm.net
Phone: (312) 638-0993
Toll Free Phone: (866) 475-7370

Outlook: <http://www.tstorm.net/outlook/20070608j7623.pdf>
Archive: http://www.tstorm.net/weather/archive_clients_0528e4017.html
South America Production Area Reference: http://www.tstorm.net/weather/reference_SA.html
Radar: <http://www.tstorm.net/weather/links.html>

Copyright 2007 T-storm Weather, LLC

Disclaimer Notice: T-storm Weather, LLC content is for informational purposes only. The publisher and its agent or employees shall not be liable for any loss or damage suffered by any person as a result of reliance on any of the contents contained within these products, whether such loss or damage arises from negligence or misrepresentation or any act or omission of the publisher or its agents or employees.